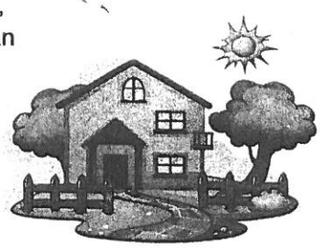
Organize Your Garden:

DECEMBER
Loosely wrap pyramidal evergreens with burlap or plastic netting.
Remove snow from shrubs and spreading evergreens.
Reduce watering of indoor plants.
Set up lighting units.
Think about gardening Christmas gifts for friends - seeds, homemade jams, magazines, subscriptions. Two new Canadian ones are T.L.C. and Canadian Gardening - good for Ontario gardens.



HOUSEHOLD HINTS

- Don't brush wet hair - to avoid hair breakage, use a wide-tooth comb instead. For the same reason, never tie up wet hair with an elastic band.
- Cornstarch for a fast, dry shampoo, spread cornstarch into your hair, leave in for five minutes and then brush out.
- Lemon juice as a rinse after shampooing to lighten and brighten blond hair. Use the juice of one lemon diluted with one cup of water, work into hair, then rinse.
- Vinegar will make your brunette hair shine. Mix one tablespoon of vinegar with one cup of water: apply into hair and rinse.
- Mayonnaise used as a conditioner will give you smooth shine hair. Coat hair with mayonnaise, pin it up and wrap it in plastic wrap. Leave on for thirty minutes then shampoo your hair.
- Vitamin C supplements of a couple of spoonfuls of honey will help your body eliminate alcohol more quickly.
- Alcohol is a diuretic so you become dehydrated if you drink too much of it. Drinking lots of water before you fall asleep will replenish the lost fluids in your body.
- A spoonful of sugar can help the hiccups go away – quickly swallow one teaspoon of granulated white sugar for quick relief.
- To attract a variety of birds to your backyard, set out an assortment of feeder types. Place them at various heights and fil each with different food.
- If you run out of baking powder, use 1 teaspoon baking soda mixed with 2 teaspoons of cream of tartar for each tablespoon of baking powder needed

Do You Use Drugs?

Reading This Could Save Your Life!

WARNING: Suspected Poisonings in Peterborough, October 19, 2022

Peterborough Public Health reports high numbers of suspected drug poisonings in the community. This is suspected to be the result of an opiate product with an increased level of toxicity. This serves as an important reminder that the street drug supply is unpredictable and harm reduction practices are essential. Beware that using even a small amount of drug can be fatal.

What to do if you inject, inhale, snort or ingest drugs:

- Drug poisoning is possible from inhaling drugs.
- Never share supplies. Avoid using damaged or modified pipes/needles.
- Don't use drugs alone. Visit the Consumption Treatment Services site at 220 Simcoe Street (open 9:30am-8pm, 7 days/week).
- If using with a friend, do not use at the exact same time.
- Have a plan - Ask someone to check on you or call the National Overdose Response Service 1-888-688-6677.
- Carry a naloxone kit. Keep it visible and close by.
- Avoid mixing drugs.
- Test your drug by using a small amount first.
- Call 911 immediately if someone cannot be resuscitated after naloxone is administered.

Under Canada's Good Samaritan Drug Overdose Act, if you seek medical help for yourself or for someone else who has overdosed, YOU WILL NOT be charged for possessing or using drugs for your own use.

Water Sample Courier Service Paused for the Winter

Service Resumes in Spring 2023 in Two Northern County Townships

Peterborough Public Health, the Municipality of Trent Lakes, and the Township of North Kawartha are pausing their joint well water sample drop-off program for the winter. The final date for county residents to drop off their samples to the North Kawartha Municipal Office and the Trent Lakes Municipal Office is Thursday November 24, 2022.

The free well water sample drop-off service will return next year at both locations, starting the first week of April in 2023. Throughout the winter months, residents may continue to drop off their samples at the following locations:

- Peterborough Public Health, 185 King Street, Peterborough, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon on Fridays
- Public Health Ontario Laboratory, 99 Hospital Drive, Peterborough, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday to Friday
- Havelock-Belmont-Methuen Township Office, 1 Ottawa Street, Havelock between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday to Thursday.

It is important to test well water a number of times throughout the year. "Even when the ground is frozen, contamination may be present. Sampling water from your well is the best way to ensure that the water is free of pathogens, which can cause illness if consumed." said Chris Eaton, Public Health Inspector from Peterborough Public Health. "We look forward to resuming our courier service with the municipalities in the spring to ensure ease for residents when submitting well water for testing."

Well water samples are tested for two types of bacterial contamination: total coliforms and E. coli. The presence of E. coli indicates the water has been contaminated with fecal material, which can contain disease-causing microbes. These organisms can cause severe gastrointestinal illness. Anyone can become ill if they consume contaminated water, but the young, elderly, and immuno-compromised are at a higher risk.

After samples are submitted, residents will receive water quality results by mail or they can call Public Health Ontario's Interactive Voice Response at 1-877-723-3426. For interpretation of the test results, or to find out out how to test for contaminants other than total coliforms or E. coli, please call Peterborough Public Health's Safe Water Program at 705-743-1000, ext. 232 or visit www.peterboroughpublichealth.ca.

May this Christmas end the present year on a cheerful note and make Way for a fresh and bright New Year. Have a very merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Peterborough Public Health Releases 2022 Report Addressing Food Insecurity in Peterborough

A Key Ingredient in the Recipe for Health Equity

Today, Peterborough Public Health releases the 2022 Report Addressing Food Insecurity in Peterborough. The report provides significant insight into the current local context of food insecurity and food affordability, and advocates for promising strategies to address the income roots of food insecurity.

"Food insecurity, or worrying about running out of money for food, is a health equity issue," says Lauren Kennedy, Registered Dietitian at Peterborough Public Health. "Health equity is when people have fair opportunities to meet their health potential. However, food insecurity disproportionately impacts under-served groups, such as racialized people, people relying on social assistance, and lone-parent families. People living with food insecurity have an increased risk for poor mental health, chronic diseases, infections, and even premature death."

Although food prices have increased dramatically over the past year, the main issue is that some incomes (e.g. minimum wage, Ontario Works, and the Ontario Disability Support Program) are too low to afford the basic cost of living. "It is concerning that some incomes are so low that we are seeing deficits after accounting for the cost of food and rent." says Kennedy. "These deficits occur even before all other basic needs are considered, such as clothing, medications, and transportation, among many others."

This gap between the cost of basic needs, and incomes is echoed by the United Way's 2022 Living Wage report released earlier this week, as part of Ontario Living Wage Week. Jim Russell, CEO of United Way Peterborough and District explains, "A living wage shows the absolute minimum wage that a resident needs to live and eat in Peterborough region. This number is climbing each year and is exposing a gap in the amount of money that is costs to live and the money being provided by government benefit programs."

"Food insecurity is connected to many critical community issues," says Dr. Thomas Piggott, Medical Officer of Health. "Working together to change our systems can support underserved groups, including single-parent families, people impacted by the drug poisoning crisis, and those vulnerable to health impacts of climate change."

"We encourage all to read our 2022 Report on Addressing Food Insecurity in Peterborough". Dr. Piggott adds, "Learning more and speaking up for change can make a difference. Together, we can create a community where no one is left behind."

Remember When ...

... You Gave a Christmas Dinner and No One Came?

Possibly this memory is quite fresh in your mind as, if it happened to you, it was probably only last year. At least, it was only last year for me.

Of course, when I started planning that dinner it was mid-fall. I was still at the cottage but knew my long, glorious summer season was nearly over and had started thinking about finally being able to invite some close friends to enjoy a traditional turkey dinner together once again. Covid seemed to be winding down and half a dozen or so of my besties were probably not going to be holding a big Christmas dinner of their own for various reasons.

Four of us are single and without close family nearby, but 5 others had all been married and 4 of them had a grown child. However, these children were all expected to be elsewhere at Christmas and their mothers felt free to make plans on their own. Then, to her great delight, Claire Marie's son Matthew was coming for a Christmas visit from London, England. Most of us already knew Matthew so it was "welcome to the party!" Now we were 10.

All of us are pretty cautious. After all, 9 of us are in the demographic at greatest risk, some have comorbidities, and half of us had worked in health care and so had an even more vivid idea of potential risks than many other Canadians. But we had been feeling more confident through the summer. Besides, we were all double-vaxxed and some had their third shot booked. All had spent some time during covid with some of the others and we had confidence in each other's precautions. What could possibly go wrong?

I decided this was going to be a special celebration. Finally, we could all be together. I remember not only our family's wonderful Christmas traditions (I wrote about them in Starting New Christmas Traditions [December 2017]) but also spectacular pre-Christmas celebrations at Grandma's apartment in Hamilton. They were magnificent – not just the food and, of course, the people, but the setting: glorious candelabra, beautiful linen, gleaming silver, French china. And, somehow, I was the grandchild who had ended up with the china, the silver, the candelabra, even the dining room furniture. Therefore, it was clearly up to me to break it all out in celebration of our anticipated release from more than 18 months of restrictions.

I cleaned everything, polished a lot of silver, and ironed table cloths and napkins. And, as all these friends had their own Christmas traditions, I tried to honour them as far as possible. Brussels sprouts, turnip, mince tarts, yams, Christmas pudding, red vermouth pre-dinner drinks, shortbreads, on top of my own choices of carrot coins, peas, mashed potatoes, turkey with dressing, cranberries and gravy, and dessert of blueberries and vanilla yogurt. First I bought the turkey but soon I was pursuing endless other details as well. Plus, 10 little Christmassy table decorations and modest gifts for everyone expected.

Well, you know what happened next. The covid cases started to rise alarmingly and we began to hear about a new variant of concern – omicron. The first reports were coming from southern Africa (because South Africa has a top-notch testing protocol). Before long, it was in northern Africa, Belgium, Britain, western Canada, and ... here. It spread like crazy and while it was said to produce less severe illness than previous variants, there are so many cases all at one time that accessing health care might become a serious challenge.

So, the friend who has asthma was feeling less comfortable; ditto the one who has had lung issues, and the woman with a blood disorder. Matthew, of course, is quite a bit younger than the rest of us but if he tests positive he can't go home, so he and his mother really, really can't afford the risk. Then, a daughter who had planned to be with her mother on Boxing Day suddenly is turning up a day early, and as she is not vaxxed, they cannot join us. The friend who lives out of town decided that travelling on the GO bus and the TTC on Christmas Day in the new conditions just may be "a bridge to far."

Now we were 3. With about 6 vegetables, a ton of silver and a family-sized turkey. I hastily hid the gifts for the missing guests in the car, and suddenly had to improvise a table centrepiece – I had forgotten to buy flowers! In a desperation move, I plunked a small bush of parsley my friend Mary had dug up from her garden on Sandy Lake and given to me in November in the place of honour and surrounded it with those Christmassy table decorations. We laid out all the food on the table, lit the candles and practised social distancing by eating our dinners on card tables with small table cloths. Conversation and laughter were not in short supply (after all we had known each other for about 40 years) and everyone served herself to the point of satiation. After about 6 hours of traditions, some from each of us, some from people who could not actually join us that day after all, and some completely new because of our latest "unprecedented" situation, we blew out the candles and the other 2 headed home.

The next day I delivered a large care package to one of those who had not been able to join us and gradually I managed to freeze or consume the leftovers. It was a success even if not a big get together. However, I really, really hope we never go through something like that again. I'm sure you agree.

Carla Salvador

We have recently lost a very special lady from our community and from our lives. In 1960 Irma married Don Windover and moved to Cavendish Township where they built and ran Little Gull Marina. Even in their retirement they stayed in the Little Gull bay where she would watch the boats come and go from the marina and all of the cars and trucks going in and out the road.

Irma loved to feed the ducks and geese in the pond behind her house, leaving out scraps for the fox in the early evening and watching all of the animals around her home. She could sit for hours on her little front porch watching the birds, chippies and squirrels, always willing to share a little treat with them. Trails of seeds along the railing left for them to eat. Flowers and plants everywhere.

Irma and Jean MacLellan together started the annual Hidden Auction held every July at the Cavendish Community Centre – even after Jean passed Irma continued to be the driving force behind this very successful fund raiser for the Centre. Many of those visiting the Hidden Auction came as much to visit with Irma as they did to check out the donations.

She was also a member of the T.O.P.S. and enjoyed their weekly meetings and weigh-in. She was always happy to share her knowledge with the rest of the group.

She was a huge part of our lives growing up – there are so many wonderful memories of time spent with her. Birthday cakes were amazing- nothing better than a home-made chocolate cake especially when every piece had coins hidden inside wrapped in tin-foil. Even if you didn't like chocolate wouldn't pass up a piece (would you Al). She would have us searching for a litter of kittens under a shed or a litter of puppies that somehow were in an old tree stump. She always had the most beautiful blueish gray kittens that we always wanted to take home. She took us on many walks showing us all the wonders of nature along the way, often bringing home treasures we would later use for a craft. My brother David would sneak to her house to spend time with her and play with Georgina's toys while everyone else was as school.

As children we wold join her in her kitchen to make an Easter cake shaped like a rabbit on a bed of green grass. It is unfortunate that none of us can remember how the cake went together, never mind have the recipe to bake it. I know that it was much more complicated than the one I make now, though they both had shredded coconut died green with food colouring to make the grass and foil covered chocolate eggs to decorate with.

Irma was a very talented florist and was often making arrangements for the arrival of a new baby, weddings, graduations, donations for fund raising events. Christmas meant making centre pieces and wreaths from pine and spruce boughs which she loved to do with whoever was interested. Ours never looked anywhere near as beautiful as hers though. When Ken and I got married she made all of the flower arrangement for the church as well as the flowers that were worn or carried by the bridal party.

I have been very fortunate in the past few years to be able to see her frequently while she was living in Case Manor. We would remember all of the people who lived here and the memories we shared. She had a view of the water from her bedroom window and would sit for hours looking outside and when the weather permitted enjoying the fresh air out on the balcony. She spoke often of her family and friends and of her life and the events she had lived through and the people she had met. She enjoyed being able to share those memories with the staff and other residents.

It was a privilege to have been part of her special memories - she will be greatly missed!

Whatever is beautiful.
Whatever is meaningful.
Whatever brings you happiness.
May is be yours these Holidays and throughout the coming year.

Christmas Day in Canada

According to our holiday poll, Christmas is Canada's favourite holiday by far - over twice as popular as Canada Day.

This is not a big surprise, there is something about Christmas that most people find attractive - whether it's the smell of gingerbread cookies, eggnog or the excitement of tearing open gifts.

Christmas, according to christianity, is a celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ but this holiday is widely celebrated by non-religous people as well.

In Canada, Christmas Day is a federal statutory holiday in every province and territory as it is in most other countries in the world. It is followed by Boxing Day on December 26.

Boxing Day

Boxing Day is a day after Christmas Day. It is called "Boxing Day" because - starting in medieval Britain - servants had a day off and would receive a gift box on this day.

Pull the Plug on Electrical Fires

Electrical equipment is a leading cause of home fires in Ontario.

Install smoke and carbon monoxide alarms on every storey of your home.

Test them every month.

How do I keep myself and my loved ones safe?

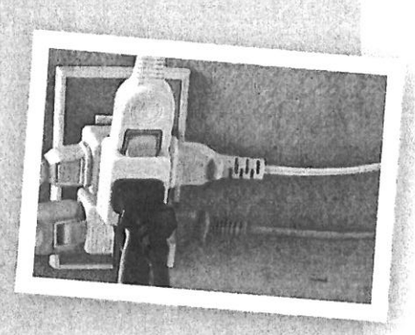
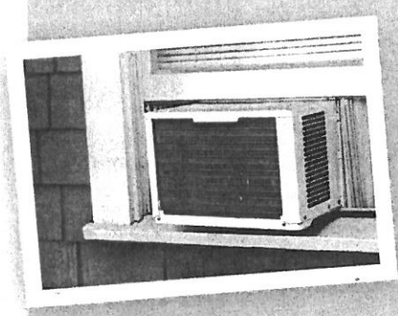
- Avoid running cords under rugs which can damage the cord and cause a fire.
- Avoid overloading a circuit with "octopus outlets". If additional outlets or circuits are required, have them installed by a licensed electrician.



- Extension cords should be used only as a temporary connection. If permanent wiring is required, have additional outlets installed by a licensed electrician. Extension cords should not be linked together—use an extension cord that is long enough to do the job.



- Air conditioners and other heavy appliances should be plugged directly into an outlet.
- Ground fault circuit interrupters (GFCIs) should be installed in bathrooms, kitchens, and garages. GFCIs shut off an electrical circuit when it becomes a shock hazard.
- Check electrical cords for damage such as fraying or nicks. A damaged cord can expose wires and result in a potential shock or fire hazard.

For more information contact your local fire department.
